

Beyond Ward Circle

A blog for and about alumni of American University in Washington, DC

April 25, 2008

Conversation with AU Alumni Board President Brian Keane

Brian Keane, a 1989 AU graduate and President of the Alumni Board, took time out of his schedule to visit with Beyond Ward Circle and discuss his career and his current involvement with the school. As President of SmartPower, he markets clean energy to consumers in practical terms. He discusses how he got involved with the organization and how they accomplish their mission.

(Listen to the 21 minute conversation here.)

In addition, Brian talks about his life since graduation and what the future of AU is from an alumni perspective. He will be hosting several online chats in the coming weeks to solicit ideas from fellow graduates as part of AU's strategic planning process, initiated by new President Neil Kerwin, the first head of the school to come from the ranks of its alumni.

For more information on how to participate in these online chats, please visit the AU alumni web site.
